Solstice Mock Product Design

This personal project was an exercise to strengthen my skills in Illustrator, and to practice product and web design. I created a responsive website for this mock brand and its products for a cohesive and appealing skincare brand.

Created for a fashion designer who wanted a chic design featuring artwork of one of his dresses. I chose colors that matched the fabric in the clothing he designed.

Never Stop Exploring

Designed for an avid hiker who wanted a personalized poster design. She requested specific stylized art featuring the phrase "Never Stop Exploring."

Climb On

I was approached by a rock climber who wanted art work in the same style as "Never Stop Exploring."

Bear Safety

This graphic depicts how to camp and backpack safely in areas inhabited by bears. My objective was to create a fun and approachable graphic to address a life threatening safety issue.

HIKING SAFELY IN BEAR COUNTRY

Avoid Hiking Alone
Hiking in a group makes more noise than a single hiker, making it more likely for a bear to hear you coming.

Stay on the Trail
Venturing off the trail increases your chances of a bear encounter.

Make Some Noise
Talking, singing, or clapping will help avoid startling a bear. The bear will likely leave if it hears you coming.

Hike During the Day
Bears are most active during dawn, dusk, and night.

Be Alert.
Be aware of your surroundings. Look for signs, such as tracks and scat, of a nearby bear to avoid startling it.

Avoid Scents
Wearing scented lotion, perfume, or deodorant can attract a bear. Don't test a bear's nose.

Store Food
Don't leave food or garbage on the trail. Bears have a strong sense of smell, and food can attract them.

Watch Your Pack
Don't leave your pack unattended. It may contain food and various scents. A bear is likely to investigate.
